2024

By repairing your items, you reduce the amount of waste going to landfill. This is particularly the case with electrical items, which are often incorrectly sent to landfill, with the raw minerals used to make them, being lost forever. By repairing these items instead of buying new, we can preserve the life span of the item and prevent them from being thrown in the bin and potentially polluting waterways or biodiversity.

DECEMBER

World Soil Day highlights the importance of the health of our soil and why it is essential for long-term food security. They promote the importance of sustainable agriculture and encourage environmental conservation through education. Without the nutrients in the soil, we won't be able to grow food.
